

Our guest today is my friend Jon Lee Dumas. And John has a quite inspiring background. After college he went to serve his country and afterwards went to law school and spent 6 years in different careers. Although he had a great income these jobs didn't inspire him. He thought there has to be something more. And there was. He found his passion and started a podcast, which is now awarded best of iTunes and he is making consistently 200.000 dollars in revenue each month. So John, its not only a podcast, its a seven days a week podcast, right?

Some of the interviews' bullet points

- Which strategy John Lee Dumas used in order to get Pat Flynn or Tim Ferris in his show
- Why you should start with yourself when you want to change something
- Which quote influenced John Lee Dumas as a person and entrepreneur big time
- How he got the knowledge about podcasting
- Which fears did he overcome and what you can learn from him
- Why it is so important to have a coach in order to succeed